

LEARNING IN Thin Air KEYNOTE

Scott Kress is a noted speaker, author and leadership consultant, helping organizations turn their teams and leaders into passionate achievers. He has a Masters Degree in Leadership and teaches in the EMBA and MBA programs at the Rotman School of Management and the University of Edinburgh.

What sets Scott apart is his ability to scale mountains. Scott is the 51st Canadian to summit Mount Everest and most recently while standing atop Mount Vinson in Antarctica he became the 18th Canadian to climb the seven summits; the highest point on all seven continents.

So when Scott engages his audiences with audacious tales of an Everest climb where arrests and deportations were frequent, and seamlessly ties that into reaching ones professional and personal goals, one can't help but listen.

And one can't help but learn as Scott demonstrates that the tools he uses to find success in the mountains are the same tools that each member of the audience can start to use in their workplace.

Scott's presentations are high-energy, engaging and passionate but most importantly they are relevant to the challenges faced by organizations and their teams today.

Recently Released

Like Scott's keynotes his first book is engaging, educational and directly applicable to personal and professional challenges. This is more than just a motivational story. Scott includes real tools, techniques and models that people can apply to their lives. Everest is the story, but personal, professional, team and leadership development is the objective.

THE RESULTS

- Motivate and inspire your teams
- Set and achieve stretch goals
- Meet challenges with new enthusiasm
- Engage leaders to build high performance teams
- Understand how to flourish within change and ambiguity
- Encourage ownership and accountability for results
- Create big-picture thinking and generate interdepartmental collaboration

KEYNOTE

Scott's high energy talk on his Everest climb kept everyone in awe, demonstrating how successes and failures directly related to the team and their interaction with each other.
