SOME Assembly REQUIRED

TEAM BUILDING PROGRAMS

THE IDEA

Similar to children's toys and IKEA furniture, an effective team comes with Some Assembly Required. This innovative program is designed to identify the critical skills necessary to assemble a high performing team. Combing philanthropy with team building, this program encourages a corporate culture of collaboration, both at the team level and in the local community.

Teams participate in a series of engaging activities building towards the final complex challenge that will put a brand new bike in the hands of a child who greatly deserves and appreciates it!

THE DETAILS

- Competing teams must ultimately build a child's bike that will donated to a local charity
- Bike parts and tools are earned by completing several team challenges that require both teamwork and problem solving skills
- The culminating activity engages teams in a multi-staged assembly process, resulting in a new fleet of bikes and happy riders

Working with Summit was a joy. Willing to work with the client's budget and including the conference theme into the team building event was a nice touch. Each person received a nice token from Summit which was a nice surprise. For sure CWT hire Summit again.
